Key Topics Covered

- Child marriage and the law: the Prohibition of Child Marriage Act, 2006 sets the minimum legal age of marriage at 18 years for girls and 21 years for boys.
- Education as empowerment: staying in school opens the door to better careers, financial independence, and confident decision-making.
- Health and well-being: girls were encouraged to understand the changes of adolescence, maintain hygiene, eat nutritious food, and speak openly with a trusted adult.
- Safety and awareness: how to recognise unsafe situations and where to seek help.
- Dreams and aspirations: encouraging girls to set goals and pursue them with family support.

Why This Matters

Child marriage can interrupt a girl's schooling, affect her health, and limit her opportunities for life. Awareness sessions like this one help students, and through them their families, understand that the law protects children and that every girl has the right to learn, grow, and choose her own future. When families and communities work together with schools and government departments, real change becomes possible.

Key Messages for Students

- Education comes first. Every girl deserves the chance to complete her schooling.
- Marriage before the legal age is a crime under the law.
- You are not alone. Talk to a teacher, parent, or the authorities if you or a friend need help.
- Be informed, be confident, and encourage your friends to do the same.
